Feel more confident about presenting your work online! This series of workshops is designed to help Penn faculty, graduate students, and advanced undergraduates familiarize themselves with several different digital presentation strategies to turn ideas into full-fledged digital projects. These workshops will develop your familiarity with analyzing a digital object, using digital tools to edit, remix, and create media, and recognizing the physical and legal limitations associated with disseminating digital media.

Creating Meaningful Graphics (MediaLit001)
Wednesday, Feb. 7, 2018 | 2pm - 3:30pm
Goldstein Electronic Classroom (Rm 114), Van Pelt-Dietrich Library Center
What do you know about creating digital graphics and claiming or citing authorship of them? In this workshop, you will learn not only the how-to but also the why. Digital graphics can and should convey meaning through imagery, text, and design. Whether you create, display, or remix others’ images, attend this workshop to learn tips for creating, finding, and citing digital graphics for use online, in presentations, and in courses.

Creating Video Presentations (MediaLit002)
Wednesday, Feb. 14, 2018 | 2pm - 3:30pm
Goldstein Electronic Classroom (Rm 114), Van Pelt-Dietrich Library Center
Would you like to do a video presentation but aren’t sure where to begin? Join us for this workshop in which you will gain experience exploring the components of a video presentation: voice-over tools, screen captures, and uploading to online platforms. Leave this session with a better understanding of the tools available to you, the learning curve, and the components that make a compelling video presentation.

Creating Online Exhibits (MediaLit003)
Wednesday, Feb. 21, 2018 | 12:30pm - 2pm
Davis Seminar Room, Fisher Fine Arts Library
You may have heard of “online exhibits” but what exactly does that mean? If you have a collection of digital objects (i.e., images, videos, pdfs) from your research, coursework, or even hobbies, creating an online exhibit might be a valuable way to represent yourself or your work. Learn about the platforms and practices available and tips for streamlining workflows, citing authorship, curating your visual data, and sharing your work.
